Cockatiels can be bullied by smaller but more dominant birds such as budgerigars (budgies) and most particularly parrotlets (Forpus). However budgerigars may over-preen the cockatiel's plumage, causing bald spots. It is not uncommon at all for a larger or smaller bird to maim the cockatiel, creating lifelong disabilities and potentially life-threatening injuries.

A lovebird is the common name of Agapornis (Greek: ἄγᾱπη 'love'; ὄρνις 'bird'), a small genus of parrot. Eight species are native to the African continent, with the grey-headed lovebird being native to Madagascar. Social and affectionate, the name comes from the parrots' strong, monogamous pair bonding and the long periods which paired birds spend sitting together.

Birds fly in a variety of ways, ranging from gliding to soaring to flapping flight to hovering. Of these, the simplest type of flight is gliding. A gliding bird uses its weight (mass) to overcome air resistance to its forward motion. To do this effectively, of course, requires a certain mass &, as a result, only large birds, such as vultures, glide on a regular basis.
